

Minnie Driver, Lakewater Hair

Lakewater hair,
The sweetest smile you've seen for awhile
In the green tipped afternoon.
Trade the sun for the moon and the velvet of the night,
Gives you a buzz, gives you a second sight,
You know that she's the one.

Last time you fell in love, was the first time.
Last time you fell in love, was the first time.

Love has a shape,
Feel it swallow dive into your head
And surface in your heart
In the late summer night
There's a bending of time
And a million years seems to last all night,
You know that she's the one.

Last time you fell in love, was the first time.
Last time you fell in love, was the first time.

Oh it gives you something to talk about
Something to hold onto, forever

Say goodbye, a half wave through the window
Of a car then the tail lights drown her out
Go down to the lake and you stay out all night,
You get pretty drunk, feel bad inside,
That girl was the one.

Last time you fell in love, was the first time.
Last time you fell in love, was the first time.
