Mojofly, Another Day

I think I'll go home now it's been the greatest day thank you for shedding life to my fantasy throw me a wicked smile the one like yesterday that threw me up and away to the evergreen like a spiral staircase down i go losing every step i sense an earthquake I.L.U. don't even know how to say when will it break today is gone but tomorrow will be okay i'll wait another day morning awakes me i need a special plan this very simple task i cannot overcome hundreds of streets i roamed in search for the perfect line nothing i've found good enough for a boy like you why i can never let you go so strange extraordinary why i can never tell you so i must be dumb why i can never let this go can't stop this fun it must be done