What if the stars fell, turning into morning mist,
And all the noise of yesterday just disappeared?

A short, soft breeze; rain pouring as the sun shines through the trees,
This scenery has faded, its warmth has gone away, and so
I break into a run again, I'm heading for my dreams!

Though you cry when you're sad, and wander when you're hurting
When there's no one else around, believe in that radiance
As rain dances on the earth, like a shroud of mist,
This planet revolves, and everything comes back around
A mysterious power is working a miracle

Wholeheartedly taking on deep pain,
I unfolded a map that I can't trust

Even now, I can't forget the promised place
The birds who sing their songs keep reminding me
So now that I believe, my wish will come true!

Wrapped in affection, even through this painful loss
I'll hold tight to my dream of a new future
Those days when I looked lonely have their meaning
But that unbounded dream turns them into strength
Spreading my wings, I'll aim into the sky

Though you cry when you're sad, and wander when you're hurting
When there's no one else around, believe in that radiance
As rain dances on the earth, like a shroud of mist,
This planet revolves, and everything comes back around
A mysterious power is working a miracle
