Mono Inc., Get Some Sleep

What would you do if I said I love you?
And who would you trust if I told you lies?
What would you do if I turn the tables?
And where would you run if you're running out of time?
You're running out of time.

How would you feel if I said I hate you?
And what would you dream if you get some sleep?
Who would you blame if the world would listen?
Tell me, what would you change if the change was all you need?
The change was all you need.

What would you ask if I had the answers?
And what would you paint if it all turned grey?
What would you think if your mind was open?
Tell me, where would you end if it end today?
It end today.

How would you feel if I said I hate you?
And what would you dream if you get some sleep?
How would you feel if I said I hate you?
And what would you dream if you get some sleep?
