

Moonlight Awakening, Disconnect

Separate us now, be the one you want to see Take it all apart, find the way you want to be
Can you see the way I've tried, can you see the way I've died
I see the things they fall apart, I cannot find a way to start

In my head, it's full of lies..

Dissonance relayed, from the world in which we stray
Visions in our head, prisoners of what remains
Can you see the way I've lived, can you see the way I've given
I see the things they fall apart, I never find a way to start

In my head, it's full of lies.. don't tell me, don't justify

So I can feel you through this complication
So I can pull through towards my destination