

Moonlight Awakening, Sincerity

do you think the world has changed tonight? i think it's not too late so have we reached our fate? we don't care if it's beyond our sight i'm closing up the door and yearning all the more a blameless veil of supremacy a sheltered life, this indignity of passing time and hopeless dreams an isolated purity... this simple test of integrity all of this, this simplicity cause i've seen the world in honesty seen the fked up tragedy do you think my life has changed tonight? i'm losing something more to lose what i adore i cannot help but think this isn't right, so i'm opening the door to feel forevermore she approaches me with sincerity a change of pace this audacity oh i'm praying for some secrecy i'm praying for this ecstasy the shameless veil of honesty all of this, this complexity yeah i offered her my sincerity offered her on bended knees my sacred vow of honesty i'm feeling all this complacency oh i never thought i'd ever see all of this was all concealed