

Morten Harket, Movies

My woman, so lonely
My woman, so fine
My flower, don't worry
You will shine
A marriage, the secret
The shadows behind
Pianos, are playing
Summertime
But as long as you're heroes in the movies
And they turn to their safe, and caribbean sea
While the power of nations set the rules
Still I've got no one lying next to me
Red carpets, no windows
She longs to escape
Her secret against fairytales
But as long as you're heroes in the movies
And they turn to they safe, and caribbean sea
While the power of nations set the rules
Still there is no one lying next to me
And they turn to their safe in caribbean sea
While the power of nations make the rules
Still there is no one lying next to me
I've got none lying next to me
Still there is no one lying next to me