

Mouga, Don't Look Down

Sweet close your eyes Don't want you to see me fallin' down smashin' against the road Is it a nightmare I can't wake up from?

These nights these days inanely banged my head against the bedroom floor he's tired he's strong he lost it all to lay down his life for one more

A boy set his mind to admit he was a fucking liar tore his hair out bout what he'd done before One year was enough to realise how to fall in line
Stay fit, go ahead, relieve that pain

How weak I am when I lie down on your shoulders
What a freak I am that I exposed yourself on me
What it means to sway above the highest waterfall
I learned behind a ragged curtain veil

I swear never to leave you alone
how could I try to waste it all?
I'll never tread on your efforts
how could I ever doubt?
Screaming at the top of lungs
This is the part of self I was looking for all time...
How couldn't I even see it?

Tears from the sky soaking into the coach in my room It seems to be so hard for wise man to dance with a fool

Tears from your eyes tonight from the skies heal all my wounds all my thoughts all I know...

I swear never to leave you alone
how could I try to waste it all?
I'll never tread on your efforts
how could I ever doubt?
Screaming at the top of lungs
This is the part of self I was looking for all time...
How couldn't I even see it?

A boy set his mind to admit he was a fucking liar
tore his hair out bout what he'd done before
One year was enough to go astray and refuse to live
Stay fit, go ahead, relieve that pain