Mudvayne, Rain

So far

Left with nothing, hanging by a memory

No stars

To give me one wish, so lost in the dark

Feels like

I'm caving in from the outside

All right, all wrong, see you again, so long

Nothing matters anymore at all

Nothing matters anymore

Life's not meant to be disposable

Lost. Found. Dead

Ready, and willing, can't stop the bleeding

Life's not meant to be expendable

Rain, Sun, Gone

Left robbed unwilling, can't fight the feeling

So low

Overwhelming, clinging to a tragedy

So clear

Hear weeping voices, tears fall in the dark

Feels like

I'm carving in from the outside

So lost, so gone, so wrong

Life's not meant to be disposable

Lost. Found. Dead

Ready, and willing, can't stop the bleeding

Life's not meant to be expendable

Rain. Sun. Gone

It's never ending

Never goes away but you did

It's never ending

Never goes away

But you did

Why? Why?

The body's just a vehicle to hold

Until we find another space

Find another place to start this over

The enemy, the action I can't condone

Do you suffer with me?

Can I give you my loss, to feel, to hold close?

Can I give you my pain, to feel, to be eaten alive by conscience?

Suffer, fucking suffer, suffer like me

Life's not meant to be disposable

Lost. Found. Dead

Ready, and willing, can't stop the bleeding

Life's not meant to be expendable
