

MuteMath, Break The Same

The crowds roll by
and im falling in everyone's invincible
but its just pretend

and we all freaked out
what a shame
when only tears
know how to remind us we all break the same

we all break the same
and we all break the same and everything we've built could be our demise

it's the sticks and stones that wear us down
that often save our lives

the different stars tonight will somehow fade the same and all the tears we cry tell us we're made the same and when we fall aside let's hope we fall in place we built our different lives but they all break the same

oh different worlds
and different hearts
and different souls
and different parts

and we all
we all break the same