

MxPx, Never Better Than Now

The ballast has come down, it's left me aimless and afraid
That's not how I was made, my head inside my knees
If I can't think, than I can't breathe
I just want to leave this place at last
When you live, you gotta live large
Let the world know who's in charge

There will never be a better time than now,
Never better than now, never better than now
There will never be a better time than now

Finally changed my number, keep the calls from coming in I'm just not interested, the medicine's not working
But I'm feeling the effects from all the side effects warned on the box
When you live, you gotta live large
Let the world know who's in charge

There will never be a better time than now,
Never better than now, never better than now
There will never be a better time than now

I've left you wondering
Was there poison in the sting that pierced my heart
Cause I feel momentarily paralyzed
But I get back on the horse and correct my current course
Cause when I have run aground, yes I have let you down
Cause when I have run aground, yes I have let you down

When you talk, you gotta talk fast
Your next breath may be your last
The road's been winding down for a while

Never better than now, never better than now
There will never be a better time than now
