

MxPx, Waiting For The World To End

Drawing closer, end of days, with much still left undone
Even as i turn this phrase, the end has now begun
History is history, tomorrow never comes
Today's the only day we have, and now that day is done

Waiting for the world to end
Searching for the signs, devastation right on time
Waiting for the world to end
Ignoring what's been said, blind to rivers running red
The doc did what he could, but we've lost too much blood

Large staring eyes that love surprises
The silence before sunrise, when you've paid the highest prices
It's too late to open your eyes
History is history, tomorrow never comes
Today's the only day we have, and now that day is done

The blood in my veins burning aflame [repeated a lot]

All creation will collide then begin again