

Myrath, Candles Cry

On the brink
The edge of human race
The world is burning but I have to sing
To all the nations
To every beating heart
It's time to remove your make up and your smile

We're told to fake, and told to lie
Don't bother looking for the truth in here
Put the mask on, walk the line

Now You'll have to change all your ways
Make a leap of faith as the candles cry
Burning bright like a flame that shines
More than any star
And their blazing lights

You don't have to give away
your soul your faith If you wanna thrive
find the strength to make a stand and drop the mask

Here we are
I came through every battle
I've covered all my scars with blood and ink
Never surrendered
I rose from every stumble
I've learnt to be a fighter to survive

We fake obedience we pretend
But deep inside we learned to stand, to fight
And rise for our rights

Now You'll have to change all your ways
Make a leap of faith as the candles cry
Burning bright like a flame that shines
More than any star
And their blazing lights

You don't have to give away
your soul your faith If you wanna thrive
find the strength to make a stand and drop the mask
Its time to strive
