

Myrrh Larsen, Running In Circles

when i woke up i found you staring at the sun, it had already come up while we lay dreaming.
i'll make-believe that we'd be better off as friends,
no more casual regrets, no more deceiving.

everybody's got a place to run to, baby, you were mine.
don't leave me running in circles tonight.

you broke my heart and left me staring at the sun,
everything i've said and done twisted and broken.
back when i met you, i was fortunate and free,
now i'm shackled by the things we left unspoken.

everybody's got a place to run to, baby, you were mine.

don't leave me -- you've got me down on my knees,
i fall for you every time.
don't make me beg you to see: i've done all i can,
so it's up to you this time.

everybody's got a place to run to, baby, you were mine.
don't leave me running in circles tonight.
everybody's got a place to run to, baby, you were mine.
don't leave me, don't leave me. don't leave me.
