

Name Taken, Waiting

It's hopeless now
It seems that there's nothing left I don't care anymore, this failure that surrounds me I accept Because I can't be all the things I want to without you
And it won't help to watch you smile without me
And begging to hold on, desperately try to remove memories of moments that I thought you were happy
And I pretend not to care
I hope you're miserable without me
But that's not love nor true
You could not be better off now

I'm waiting for the day when I'd forget you
But I don't know if its right to hate this through
When you're the only one I see who truly keeps me here
But all you've left me is alone

And I miss you now
When all I can do is wish it wasn't this way, wish it wasn't too late
So is it wrong to ask for a second chance?
to prove my regret
To make up for the world

I'm waiting for the day when I'd forget you
But I don't know if its right to hate this through
When you're the only one I see who truly keeps me here
But all you've left me is alone

It's hopeless now,
so hopeless to forget that there's no one here for me

And I'm waiting for the day when I'd be with you Forever it will be,
a dream that's always short of true
When you're the only one I see, who truly keeps me here
But all you've left me is alone

It's hopeless now,
so hopeless to forget that there's no one here for me Because I can't be all the things I want to without you,
And I'm waiting for the day when I'd be with you Forever it will be,
a dream that's always short of true
When you're the only one I see, who truly keeps me here
But all you've left me is alone