

Name Taken, Write Back

the light bends around us and it keeps us from being found as we find each other once again right back where we started

we left our hearts
ready to fall back in again
open arms
seems so far above than what we deserve encircled by crowds of promises dancin' round as they mark and celebrate the end of my years of scared

we left our hearts
ready to fall back in again
open arms
seems so far above than what we deserve

the light bends around us
and it keeps us from being found
we left our hearts
ready to fall back in again
open arms
seems so far above than what we deserve