

Natalie Brown, Leaves Are Turning

Love came
Soft as a breeze in May
It was whispering my name
Moons came
Lighting the seasons change
To a secret shore, we sailed away
And now

Leaves are turning once again
Here we are at summers end
Wading through the tides of time
Another season comes and goes
Leaves once green will turn to gold
Time wont break the tie that binds

One mind
When two hearts and souls combine
Brought together by a sacred tie
Sweet wine
I taste when your lips touch mine
Each sip I take gets better with time

Leaves are turning once again
Here we are at summers end
Wading through the tides of time
Another season comes and goes
Leaves once green will turn to gold
Time wont break the tie that binds

Oh oh oh, oh oh oh, oh oh oh, oh
Oh oh oh, oh oh oh, oh oh oh, oh
Leaves are turning once again
Here we are at summers end
Wading through the tides of time
Leaves are turning once again
Another season comes and goes
Leaves once green will turn to gold
Time wont break the tie that binds
Leaves are turning once again
