

Natalie Walker, Not The End

His heart is extinguished
Once set aflame
His hope has no fizzled
This is the furthest he's been from sane
He waits each day for the rain
All is fading off to grey
A cold heart
A closed door
Nothing there to light his way

Show your soul boy
Let the sun shine again
Come out from the darkness
You have your whole life to live
This is not the end

He tries to forget them
And now the tears fall down his face
The past that taunts him
Now he is desperate for escape

Show your soul boy
Let the sun shine again
Come out from the darkness
You have your whole life to live
This is not the end