Natalie Walker, Quicksand

I must have been so stupid I must have been so out of touch He must have been so clever Convincing me that this was really love

Desperate for words Lost in a maze It fell apart I lost my place It hurt so bad I cried for days Time healed all pain Now I'm okay

How many times can my heart break Disillusioned by the thought of flawless love Will I ever get there Or am I drowning in quicksand With no relief to come

I'll rise from all my sorrow Let the sun shine on my face All alone in comfort It's my solitude I will embrace

I will rise from my sorrow