

Nazz, See What You Can Be

Let's talk about the things you wonder Things that you're trying to hide When words slip up, you drag them under, making me stand outside But from all I can see, you've become somewhat frightened of me But my thoughts run high of what we could be If we didn't stop to think of what could go wrong on our way there

I want you to see what you can be See what we can be if we try

Here is a thing we can't skip over I think you should be around What one can do, can two do better, don't try to drag the thing down If I thought I could be something more than I thought I could be I would take off and fly if it were me I don't need to be reminded of the things I don't believe in
