

Nazz, Sydney's Lynchbox

I got lost in my sleep five thousand miles from here
I was seduced by a lady with deadly snakes in her hair
There was a dragon there who could have been anywhere
There was me, and the beast, and fire in the air

I was the first knight to fly but tumbled out of the sky
To meet fiendish grendel where the sea hag hides
On the grain of dust where I meander

Aphrodite does what I command her

I want to dream back and fly with mercury
Fly on wings to helium and I will not believe You're everywhere that ever was
See everyone whose ever sung
I love the emperress of a distant sun
