Negative, Creeping Inside

Her love is too much for my heart She burned me out I felt to protect myself From her smile so divine

And I'd like to save her But I think it's too hard Too hard for her and for me

And she makes me feel My heart is creeping inside

Together we can see all incompleteness On a different way She keeps on staring straight and true It makes me weak I felt to protect myself From her eyes too divine

And I'd like to save her But I think it's too hard Too hard for her and for me