

Neil Sedaka, My World Keeps Getting Smaller Every Day

Round and round I go in circles trying to be free, since you went away the world is closing in on me.
Every day I face tomorrow knowing you'll be there.
I see your face in every little thing we used to share.
The memory of you is everywhere.
And my world keeps getting smaller every day,
I run but I can't run away,
you're with me everywhere I go.
And I find you're in my heart and in my mind,
there's no place left on earth to stay,
my world gets smaller every day.
In the lonely of the morning when I'm waking up,
I find you standing at the bottom of my coffee cup.
I see you on the highway when I'm driving in the car.
Downtown in the city I just turn and there you are.
I run from you but never get too far.
And my world keeps getting smaller every day
I run but I can't run away,
you're with me everywhere I go.
And I find you're in my heart and in my mind,
there's no place left on earth to stay,
my world gets smaller every day.
And my world keeps getting smaller every day
I run but I can't run away,
my world gets smaller every day.
