

Neulander, Just There

it will burn you at the start it will cut you everywhere then drop deep into your heart like a single salty tear

and a heart full of spite will come to feel regret and this sorrow all the night
it will not forget

it's not always right
nor completely unfair
not always right
it's just there
just there

and so that I might lift this head to up above
let me find the world a gift more incorruptible than love

it's not always right
nor completely unfair
not always right
it's just there
just there