

Neurotica, Now

So what if it came down make a fortress hide Bleeding is not me It's just not the way there are many others Yell so loudly breaking down but you'll hear no sound That's what I'm meaning Strange from the start though it just may not be quite the same Like a ship with no water sailing across boulder seas Ripping it up from the bottom like piranha filled waters There's no sunsets from the diseased Since there's no meaning why would you want to believe This couldn't leave you Reclaim all your judgments Why would you want to believe This couldn't leave you Break my muted silent tongue flapping gums I speak Only to those who will listen without preconceived prejudice I was so wrong There's no such thing as no prejudice And I believe maybe someday we'll all conquer this Maybe someday maybe someday is now
