Neverending White Lights, I Hope Your Heart Rui

If all the luck in this life has all run If all my faith is undone, I had none To track them down and take them back where they belong Could that explain why I'm here, Is that the reason why I came And why I feel this way, I feel, I feel, I feel, I came apart here

Stole a look away from you eyes Stole a look and finally paid your price Tethered fresh, trampled thoughts, look for me Look at this face, everywhere there's new mistakes And underneath it all, takes its toll, grudgingly But with you in here, everything seems ok

If every moment could have you in it, I know where all my faith had gone If any moment should take you away, I know I'll always have this one

If every moment could have you in it, I know where all my faith had gone If any moment should take you away, I know I'll always have this one This one, this one

Of any moment, ever stolen, don't take this one As my heart runs empty now I realize What I want would never surface otherwise I hope your heart runs empty and you realize Hold on to this hope, hold on to this hope Hold on to all my hope, and my faith Cause I don't wanna leave, I don't leave from your life Because I wanna see, that nothing is faded, that nothing could change it, That nothing is faded, that nothing could change it Of any moment