

Nevermore, We Disintegrate within the dark communion of self awareness there lies a void called ego an endless fusion of stillness and chaos to bring its death can bring rebirth I want to freeze the time (dissolve into gray) as we disintegrate the light let the rain come down, let the solitude surround I want to change the lines and purify the divide are we ever free or slaves to technology Outside the fallen walls of pride and prejudice there is a voice that speaks in circles empty illusions still fall before us there is no future so profess your pain
