

Nicholis Louw, Everything I Touch

Everything I touch turns into you
Everything around me has been touched by you
Everything I breathe smells just like you
And everywhere I turn it seems youre there

Seems like no one else remembers you
My worlds been shaken torn in two
Everything Ive done has been for you
How can I pretend to be the same

I still love you
Every night I think of you I dream of you
Every time I close my eyes I cry for you
Youll always be my star

No one ever cared for me like you
Ive built a world my life for loving you
The only thing left in me is your memory
Everything else in me has gone with you