

Nickel Creek, Should've Known Better

It's been a long time coming
And the cards were stacked
It's been a long, hard road to hell and back
Your love meant trouble
From the day we met
You won every hand
I lost every bet

Now you think that I should've known better
Now you think that I
I should've seen it come
My heart sank when I read that letter
It sank like a stone
It sank like a stone

Cup of cold coffee, yesterday's mail
Bad love like this is always bound to fail
Your love meant trouble
From the day we met
If you want your things
They're on the front step

Now you think that I should've known better
Now you think that I
I should've seen it come
My heart sank when I read that letter
It sank like a stone
It sank like a stone

All alone in my kitchen
All alone in my head
Some things you can't take back
Once they've been said
Don't know what this love is for
All I know is, I don't want it anymore

Now you think that I should've known better
Now you think that I
I should've seen it come
My heart sank when I read that letter
It sank like a stone
It sank like a stone
