

Nikki Flores, It's OK

You're so confused
When you know there's no one there who really understands
You're on your own
And your happiness is bleeding through an open wound
You can't control what goes on inside this hell that we call life
You lost yourself in everything, everything, everything you can't find
But it's okay just to be yourself
Just as long as it's alright with you
Your world has changed
To the point where you don't seem to quite fit in Everyone seems so happy
Then there's you
All alone with no one there to take your side
And the lies have taken every last breath out of your life
But it's okay just to be yourself
Just as long as it's alright with you
Yeah with you
So you fly
Away from all the hell inside your mind
And you try
To find a place where you feel loved somehow
Yeah
But it's okay just to be yourself
Just as long as it's alright with you
Yeah with you
With you
You