

Nina Gordon, Turn On Your Radio

I wanna write a song that will break your heart
I want you to hear it and fall apart
I wanna be there when the tears fall from your eyes
I wanna see it in you face when you realize

Turn on your radio and listen to these words as I repeat them
You have lost me, you have lost me
Turn on your radio and listen to these words till you believe them
You have lost me, you have lost me this time

Don't know where you are tonight
If there is someone sleeping by your side
But I'm gonna write it with my airplane in your sky
And you're gonna read it on a billboard when you're driving by

Turn on your radio and listen to these words as I repeat them
You have lost me, yeah, you have lost me
Turn on your radio and listen to these words till you believe them
You have lost me, yeah, you have lost me

Turning over the airwaves, loud and clear so you can hear me
And over the new world so you can sing it in your sleep
And no matter where you go I'll be right there in stereo

I wanna be there when the tears fall from your eyes
I wanna see it in you face when you realize

Turn on your radio and listen to these words as I repeat them
You have lost me, yeah, you have lost me
Just turn on your radio and listen to these words till you believe them
You have lost me, yeah, you have lost me

Turn on your radio
Till you believe that you have lost me
You have lost me, you have

Turn on your radio
Till you believe that you have lost me
Yeah, you have lost me this time