

No Motiv, Lost

look in my eyes what do you see someone who looks just like me I'm lost inside something that I can't even find look inside my empty soul needs something to fill this gaping hole that's been here since you left please come back alone I sit inside my room with nothing else left to do except to think about the things I'll never have and then I start to wonder why these feelings burn so deep inside why should I even care don't try to tell me that you've been there