

No Motiv, The Bridge

There she went she took the walk of life... the walk of death her life was hard she painted herself in a corner now she can't get out the bridge is near and death is just a step away who cares? Nobody cares if she lives or dies she wanted the easy way out and there's nothing left for her in this world and there's no reason for her to go on and then she thinks what might have been all of the things that she should of had maybe things will change from now on... Yeah but it's too late she has already jumped and what a shame she changed her mind no turning back she's done it now just another lost soul claimed by the bridge she wanted the easy way out and there's nothing left for her in this world and there's no reason for her to go on