

Not By Choice, Standing All Alone

You take my breath away
With all the things you say
You take my words away
And now I'm left here standing all alone

You try hard, you try hard to impress them
But they look on... they don't even know your name
Name the game... the game you want to play today
It's the same old game

You take my breath away
With all the things you say
You take my words away
And now I'm left here standing all alone

You fucked up... you threw it all away again
Cuz you don't know... what you want from day to day
Point the blame... point the blame back at yourself
It's the same old game

You take my breath away
With all the things you say
You take my words away
And now I'm left here standing all alone , standing all alone

You try to change the world... and you never see it's all a game to me
You try to change the world... and you never see that it's all a game
Never see that it's all a game to me

LET'S GO!!!!

You take my breath away
With all the things you say
You take my words away
And now I'm left here standing all alone