Novalis Deux, World In Flames

Thousand years to walk
Thousand years to search my love
From south to the north
From east to the west

One million miles Through fire and ice From heaven to hell From moon to the sun

The world stands in flames Confused human race Thousand years to walk Thousand years, thousand moons

The world stands in flames Confused human race Thousand years to walk Thousand years, in search of you

When I walk over fields The wind sings a symphony When the angels rise From the earth up to the sky

As long as my heart beats I will follow her line The stars are my friends I'll never give up

The world stands in flames Confused human race Thousand years to walk Thousand years, thousand moons

The world stands in flames Confused human race Thousand years to walk Thousand years, in search of you
