

Oasis, Thank You For The Good Times

Who will rise
it'll be so nice to hear you sing
thank you for the good times
before the good times fly away your eyes are telling lies so much storm is on the way but it's so nice but don't let the good times fly away

i drink to every circus standing here among the few who've tried to cheat the years there's always one of us who's blown away i'll scratch a star for breath along the way

who will rise

there's always one of us who's blown away our stars are strapped for cash along the way

who will rise

before the good times fly away
thank you for the good times
before the good times fly away
thank you for the good times
