

Oceania, Kursk

i can't figure out
what makes it tick
i lost my shadow
it burned to a crisp

exploring the world
wanting to know
i could not see
what yawned below

iron groans in the deep where sunken souls can't sleep the eyes of deep-sea fish flash in the black abyss

the whale falls soft and slow
with the dead marine snow