

October Nites, So Tell Me...

Take a minute, And step back from your ordinary ways
I'd like you to take a look inside my life
And put on this pair of shoes, And go on your way
I know I'd be surprised at what you'd have to say
This time for once don't blame this all on me
It's not my fault, It's you that needs to see
Know that I'm drowning in this misery, Can you see?
You paint a cloud over me
So Tell Me What your intentions were
You know you broke my heart
So Tell Me What you're thinking now
And If I close my eyes, Will this worry subside
See the hardships and the pain, From trying to make friends
And will they be by your side, Until the bitter end
So ask yourself a question "Do they use you all the time?"
And will they help you on your way, And show you everything is fine
This time for once don't blame this all on me
It's not my fault, It's you that needs to see
Know that I'm drowning in this misery, Can you see?
You paint a cloud over me
So Tell Me What your intentions were
You know you broke my heart
So Tell Me What you're thinking now
And If I close my eyes...
So Tell Me What your intentions were
You know you broke my heart
So Tell Me What you're thinking now
And If I close my eyes, Will this worry subside
So Tell Me What your intentions were
You know you broke my heart
So Tell Me What you're thinking now
And If I close my eyes....
