

Off By One, Been Alone

I could have been with someone
I could have been alone
I could have lived without you
But would I have lived at all

I could have been with someone
I could have been alone
I could have lived without you
But would I have lived at all
I'm addicted to all that you do

The demon inside my head is you
You bring me up, bring me down, pull me through
You squeeze my last breath I'm turning blue
Better to die than to live without you

I could have lived tomorrow
I choose to die today
I need each fragment of you
In some masochistic way

I could of walked away from
From everything I've known
I could have been with someone
I could have been alone

I'm addicted to all that you do

The demon inside my head is you
You bring me up, bring me down, pull me through
You squeeze my last breath I'm turning blue
Better to die than to live without you

Time again I find myself at your door
You're the drug I'm sweating and I need more
Lay me down won't you purify my soul
Use me up and swallow me whole.

LOOK what you do
LOOK what you do

LOOK what you do
LOOK what you do

LOOK what you do
LOOK what you do

You bring me up bring me down pull me through

LOOK what you do
LOOK what you do

Better to die then to live with out you.