

Oleander, Shrinking The Blob

the deeper you get the more you sink into it faster you fall the more you crawl away from it siamese at the knees she said and we're weighted we're siamese if you please and she said that we're weighted the more that you make the less you should take from others the longer you live the more you should give to your brothers siamese at the knees she said and we're weighted
we're siamese if you please and she said that we're weighted

we are right here with you
we are right here with you
you came the wait is over and now your mine
and you will never ever be alone can't believe how much you've grown in such a short time can't believe how much you've grown and are growing ornery, but lovingly you scream when your hungry

can't believe how much you've grown and are growing right in front of my eyes

we are right here with you
we are right here with you
you came the wait is over
and now your mine
and you will never ever be alone