

Olivia Newton-John, Love You Hold The Key

(Olivia Newton-John/John Farrar)

Lonely, lonely man she's set you free now
Moved aside and left a space for me now
Wasted, wasted love walled up inside you
Open up and pour it out on me

Whisper low when you come to me
Hold me tenderly
Safe and warm in my arms tonight
That's how it's gonna be
I'm wearing my heart on my sleeve
I don't have to tell you I'll never leave
Thought that heaven was close to me
But love you hold the key

Empty, empty years you left behind you
Tears and memories all cried away
Silently a love has grown between us
Now I know that I am free to say

Whisper low when you come to me
Hold me tenderly
Safe and warm in my arms tonight
That's how it's gonna be
I'm wearing my heart on my sleeve
I don't have to tell you I'll never leave
Thought that heaven was close to me
But love you hold the key
Love you hold the key