

Olivia Newton-John, The Biggest Clown

(J.Rostill)

Everybody laughs at the clown when he falls down
People just smile and clap their hands together
I don't have a big red nose or wear his funny clothes
But everybody knows, the biggest clown in all the world is me

Everybody knows how it feels when someone steals
All that your heart could ever hope to treasure
Since he left to go his way, I hear both night and day
The things that people say
The biggest clown in all the world is me

I guess the show's under way
I hear the orchestra start to play
And it's time for the clown to open the show
How it hurts when they cheer every crocodile tear
They just don't know

When there's nothing left you can save, got to be brave
Walk with your head held high and looking forward
It's not working very well, as anyone can tell
I guess I know as well
The biggest clown in all the world is me

I guess the show's under way
I hear the orchestra start to play
And it's time for the clown to open the show
How it hurts when they cheer every crocodile tear
They just don't know

I guess the show's under way
I hear the orchestra start to play
And it's time for the clown to open the show
How it hurts when they cheer every crocodile tear
They just don't know
