

One King Down, Bloodlust Revenge

Through one choice made all choice is gone
And I see them through ice glazed eyes
I envisioned their will to never crack
Now these hands are tied behind a broken back

Whatever I once knew fell apart in my hands
Breaking, falling to the floor like sand
Through these fingers of panic this decent I see
I look down, all I see is what used to be

I mourn for all the loss
I have nowhere to place the blame
There is no more time for deciding
Father, I know what they're hiding

Time has come for the truth to be known
Shed the falsehood for your own good
There's nothing wrong in taking another step
There is no crime in saving what's left

Cast iron convictions catalyst to my reactive hate
I see the times to come. I cannot wait

A kinship lay in shambles
Shadows of promises once made
Indifference, emptiness
To those who have been betrayed

So I cover it with pride
And this torture I keep on the inside
These years of decay
Are chipping me away

Vengeance will serve as attrition to their sin
This is my jurisdiction again
A line is crossed as I have been
Punishment, bloodlust revenge