One Side Zero, Underground

see mother will, hold the children from, all the world's pain father still. looks deep with eyes of hate folding our arms, when the happiness, falls apart from, all was unknown, until you create, the game so it's time clear our minds underground shut your eyes shut your eyes shut your eyes shut your eyes follow the gun, quench the thirst for love, that you have kept from, only son, that has held you up so high felt like the world, has been pushed away, and back again, when mother, will you, protect all of us, somehow? so it's time clear our minds underground shut your eyes shut your eyes