Onelinedrawing, Feb

And every couple of months you die In every answer a dozen lies You're feeling better and readytime

And every couple of months you die a lot of waiting and words and crying a lot of hoping that you'll be fine I never try, it always works It's hard to leave It's better to burn I want a barrier

Everywhere is someone else's Where is a home for this heart?