

Orange 9mm, Thickest Glass

Take my glass mind...
And walk me through the door
I can't wait to taste the sun again
Take my glass mind...
And drag me off the floor
So then maybe I can see right
It only take a simple man to see
Do you really know what you're staring at?
It only takes a simple man to see
But do you really know if what you saw was so?
Something more you've been had cause I've been told
Something more you've been had cause I've been told

In this lifetime I feel that I've slipped
And lost my grip many time before
In this lifetime I've heard voices call
But do you ever really know if what you saw was so?
Something more you've been had
I've been told
Something more you've been had
I've been told
In this lifetime we stretch towards the top
But destiny can only grab a few
In this lifetime I've seen many fall
But do you ever really know if what you saw was so?
