Orange Blue, When Julie Says (Radio Edit)

Some say that it's worth fighting for love Some say that God is dead But if I didn't speak honestly my thoughts I swear to God I'd have regrets

My dream is obviosly broken and some words are Unnecessarily spoken out But like the breath of summer breeze You kiss my tears away

And I can't tell if it's worth singing all those songs
Just to prove my way is true
'Cause no song in the world could ever show you
The ways I feel for you My heart is endlessly on fire
It's full of boiling desire
And if you can tell your love inside
I say I would do it, too

When Julie says she loves me She is covering up my wounds When Julie says she loves me The sky of my mind turns blue

When Julie says she loves me She says more she ever said And when Julie says she loves me I can sing a song 'Cause she'll take me home

And all those selfish bloody things I did
They tell the things I wouldn't do
And I know my guts like I know
That the world is green and blue
You give me
All of those reasons I need
It's not just one of those single seasons
And maybe I can show you the weight of words
When I tell you thousand times

When Julie says ... I can take all my dreams to bed

And Julie says she must admit That she's the one to blame But like the breath of summer breeze I'll kiss your fears away

When Julie says ...
