Ornella Vanoni, Love's (Still) The Answer

Not so long ago I would have told you That the world was round Good and Sound Freedom bound The future was secure... Now I'm not so sure It seems like gravity has been reversed and gettin worse Nothing works And everybody hurts Yes there's a trail of tears Down trough the years of broken hearts it's still so hard to lete the sun shine in

Love's the answer No matter what I swear love is It's still the answer Just like it always was

Such simple truth Love never changes or betrays a friend From the start love was part of some fantastic plan some brotherhood of man And now it's down to us We either shine the light or darkness rule Our children lose We're free to choose our fate To finda our way Beyond this veil of tears the sky is clear an every star stands bor a heart that lets the sun shine in
