

Over It, Crash And Burn

Another day here, nothing to fear, when it all came crashing down on me.

Maybe it's time I closed my eyes.

Lonely again, I'll have to pretend that I can get my life back in line.

Dreams have taken me this far.

My advice to you, try not to get on the wrong side of the tracks where there is no return.

From where we have started there is nowhere left to go.

Maybe it's time we crashed and burned. Maybe I'll be strong and turn my head away.

But things just can't go right today. You've gone too far.