

Overhead, I Believed

So you have left letting me standing here why did you have to go away when our love was so strong it's so painful when i think of you knowing you're a thousand miles away

'Cauz all i can do is hope that one there our paths will meet will meet again

sometimes when the moment arrives i think too much and begin to believe that you just might be my soulmate then again maybe you're just someone i should hate

I don't hate you for everything you've done to me and i don't hate you for everything you've done for yourself but i think the clouds are starting to clear and i begin to see what my eyes should have seen before

sometimes when the moment arrives
i think too much and begin to believe
that you just might be my soulmate
then again maybe you're just someone i should hate

but i don't no i don't
but i don't
no i don't

are you thinking of me tonight are you thinking of us tonight do you count the days before you can look me in the eyes again

are you thinking of me tonight
are you thinking of us tonight (take me in your arms)
do you count the days before you can look me in the eyes again

are you thinking of me tonight
Why are you thinking of us tonight (just beneath your arms)
do you count the days before you can look me in the eyes again (take me in your arms)

are you thinking of me tonight
Why are you thinking of us tonight
(take me in your arms)
do you count the days before you can look me in the eyes again